TRANSPARENT RANKING: TOP UNIVERSITIES BY GOOGLE SCHOLAR CITATIONS

Third Edition (December 2016 version 3.0)

Last year we used the institutional profiles introduced by Google Scholar Citations for the top universities according to the information provided for the groups of scholars sharing the same address of an institution. The total number of individual profiles in GSC is probably close to one million. The number of universities profiles is over 5000. Google Scholar is working for extending the world coverage (almost) all the academic organizations. Unfortunately their resources are limited and there is no filter. We are still committed to the use of this key source, so we decided to collect the same data (citation counts of the top 10 excluding most cited) for the lists obtained from filtering GSC profiles by the institutional web of the Ranking Web.

This ranking is an experiment for testing the suitability of including GSC data in the Rankings. The current methodology is simple:

1. The institutional profiles are used if available. The universities still lacking profile are scanned in the domain. We strongly advise to use normalized (official) name of the university in the affiliation and address.

2. Data from the top 10 public profiles of each university are collected. This number comes from independent comparisons. If profiles of authors not belonging to the University are added in the list, the institution will be excluded of the ranking. Any information regarding this bad practice is welcome.

3. The first profile of the list is excluded for improving representativeness. For the rest of the list, the number of citations are added and the institutions are ranked in descending order of this indicator. For the same author, only the best profile is used penalizing organizations that are not cleaning duplicate individual profiles (journals, departments, groups) are excluded, that means the number of entries comes from individual profiles without author names in roman characters can be excluded, so please include transliterated version in the affiliation. Don't add degrees, academic positions or department affiliation after the name.

4. The figures are valid only at the time of collection (around December 20th 2016). We don't consider absences. To set up a personal profile in Google Scholar Citations database is voluntary, but once created, the responsibility for info correctness belongs to the author. GSC automatically updates the profiles that sometimes adds non-pertinent records and citations to the profile. Authors should be aware of these updates and delete profiles periodically. Also institutions should monitor their members profiles for intended (or unintended) duplicate records. This is key for the ranking as any institution with at least one of these problems can be excluded from editions of the ranking. Please, contact directly with Google Scholar for any aspect related with the profiles.

Important: The Transparent Ranking values are used as the Transparent (Openness) Ranking Web 2017 edition scheduled for late January.

This version is beta (Top 5000 from close to 10000 entries) and it is open to corrections if errors are found in the publication of the parent Ranking.
